

BANQUETERS ADJUT THE COLLEGE MAN

Hold Him Not Guilty of Charge That He Is Improperly Trained for World's Work.

UNIVERSITY CLUB DINERS GIVE UNANIMOUS VERDICT

John G. Hibben and Chief Justice Covington Among Speakers. Taft's Name Cheered.

WILLIAM S. PARKS.

The college man was on trial at the eleventh annual banquet of the University Club in the New Willard Hotel last night, and adjudged not guilty of the charge that his training does not properly fit him for a part in the world's work and that he fails to keep pace with his fellows when he embarks upon a business career.

President John G. Hibben of Princeton University was chief counsel for the defendant, and presented some statistics to show that old-fashioned methods of education have lost none of their effectiveness and that college men are progressive wage earners.

James Gray, formerly mayor of Minneapolis, proved an expert witness for the college man, declaring his work has greatly toned up the newspaper business.

So convincing was the evidence that the 500 diners who composed the jury gave early indication of their willingness to render a unanimous verdict. Anticipating the result, the banquet committee had provided other features which kept the court in good-humored session until a late hour.

sentative in Congress from Maryland, defending the legislative branch of the government aroused much enthusiasm, but the applause was greatest when a letter from former President Taft, expressing regret over his being unable to attend the dinner, was read. The diners rose and gave ear-splitting cheers for Taft, after which they sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Other well received contributions to the program were addresses by Joseph E. Davies, recently appointed member of the new federal trade commission, and Frederico Alfonso Pezet, minister from Peru.

President Myron M. Parker of the University Club opened the proceedings. He read letters from both former President Taft and President Wilson extending congratulations to the club and wishes for a continuation of its development. Mr. Parker then introduced Claude N. Bennett, who presided as toastmaster.

The case of criticism versus college men was called first, and President Hibben immediately instituted an energetic defense of his client. He referred to the old-time predictions against the college man—one, that his training is too theoretical, and not sufficiently practical; the other, that he does not possess the sense of responsibility he should in view of the advantages given him.

Old-Fashioned Ideals Best.

Dr. Hibben declared his experience as

Blisters All Over Baby's Body

Itched and Burned. Clothing Irritated. Face Badly Disfigured. Used One Cake Cuticura Soap and One Box Ointment. Before Finished Trouble Was Gone.

Route 6, Huntington, Tenn.—"At three months old my baby broke out with blisters all over his body. They would not seem to cure. They looked like burn blisters and they itched and burned so that it was almost impossible for him to sleep at night. Whenever he awoke from his sleep he would make a loud cry and his clothing irritated him so that he kept me awake a greater part of the night. His face was badly disfigured.

"I got different kinds of salves, but they didn't do him any good. Then I noticed an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so sent for a sample. They helped him so much that I bought a cake of Cuticura soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I would bathe him good in Cuticura Soap and apply the Cuticura Ointment twice daily, and before I had finished the ointment had entirely disappeared and the trouble was gone." (Signed) Mrs. M. B. Nesbitt, Oct. 8, 1914.

an educator had taught him that the old-fashioned ideals of education are the best; that it is most important to train a young man not for one duty, but for all the emergencies of life that may arise. He presented some statistics showing the wage-earning abilities of 150 members of the class of 1901 of Princeton during the first ten years following their graduation. The average salary earned by these men during the first year was $706. By the time the tenth year was reached the average salary had jumped to $3,503.

In answering the indictment that the undergraduate is not possessed with a sufficient sense of responsibility, President Hibben admitted that this charge in many cases is true, and laid the blame to parents who do not train their sons in the habit of doing the day's work. "Some students and their parents," he said, "imagine that a college education can be obtained through the windows of a motor car, but it can't be done."

President Hibben said the idealist and the dreamer have played the greatest parts in the development of civilization. University men, he said, must have not only a sense of responsibility for work, but must have a moral and spiritual vigor, in order to render the greatest services to mankind.

Joseph E. Davies Is Heard.

Joseph E. Davies, who followed President Hibben, spoke on the subject of "Executive Departments as Universities." He said the executive departments of the government are filled with university men who are being miserably paid, but that they are working for the sake of doing the job well and are living up to the ideals and aspirations of the college man.

An emphatic "yes" was the answer of James Gray to the question, "Do we need schools of journalism?" Mr. Gray said the college journalist scores the old-time "boozing reporter" and some other antiquated types. He said the college man has given journalism a place among the professions.

Justice Covington, in response to the toast, "Shall Law Be Made by Legislation or Interpretation?" scored the "legislative coward," who will vote for a bill on whose constitutionality he is not sure, leaving the burden of the decision to the judiciary.

The new head of the District Supreme court declared that during his six years in Congress he had never voted for any proposition that seemed to him to be in opposition to either the letter or spirit of the Constitution.

Up to the Legislators.

Justice Covington said there would be no complaint about judicial supervision if the legislators would do their part. He said this government will be maintained only so long as the legislative branch retains its pristine and unimpaired power, that power bestowed by the Constitution, and which expresses the will and majesty of the American people.

Since he has been the diplomatic representative of Peru in this country Minister Pezet said he had traveled from coast to coast and border to border with the object of obtaining information about conditions in this country for dissemination among the citizens of Peru. He declared that he urged the business men of this country to establish in the University of Lima, in Peru, a chair of American history.

The banquet ended with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." The program committee issued an attractive booklet of cartoons and songs, and there was constant singing from the time the dinner began until the members donned paper hats to listen to the speeches.

STORAGE OF WATER BEGUN.

Arrowrock Dam, Highest in World, to Reclaim Southeast Idaho Area.

Storage of water was begun yesterday at Arrowrock dam, highest in the world, where the reclamation project which will reclaim an area in southeastern Idaho.

The Arrowrock dam, which will be completed by January 1, 1916, two years ahead of the original estimate, is 30 feet high, 1,075 feet long on top and contains 530,000 cubic yards of masonry. It is of rubble masonry arched up stream and is one of the great structures of this engineering age. Its cost is approximately $5,000,000.

The dam is an important feature of the Boise project, which represents an estimated total investment of nearly $14,000,000, for the reclamation of 243,000 acres of fertile land in the Boise valley, in southeastern Idaho. This area is nearly three times as large as the present acreage in crops of the state of Rhode Island.

SUGGESTS DELAY IN REPAIRS.

Naval Board Completes Inspection of Battleship North Dakota.

While eventually it may be advisable to equip the battleship North Dakota with a complete set of new engines in the interest of economy and speed, the board of inspection which has just completed its examination of that ship recommends that the engines now aboard be repaired, and that the ship be kept in service for six weeks or two months longer. By the end of the two months longer, the engines, which can be done in about two weeks, the engines can be placed in as perfect condition as their design allows, and the North Dakota will be able to rejoin the fleet and remain with it until the cruise is made to San Francisco next summer.

It had been estimated that to replace the turbines of the North Dakota, which were the first engines of the type installed in our navy, would cost about $50,000, and the vessel would be laid up for about a year.

Quiz for Tool Makers for Navy Yard.

An open competitive examination will be held by the civil service commission April 1 for toolmakers at the Washington navy yard, to fill vacancies as they may occur. The pay of a toolmaker ranges from $3.28 to $4.08 a day. Applications must be filed with the board at the navy yard before March 17.
